

The Special Rehousing Program (PER, 1993-early 2000s)

- Context: the proliferation of slums in Porto and Lisbon's metropolitan areas (1960s-late 1980s).
- Key traits: sectorial intervention based on planning categories; empahsis on new construction; central financing, local implementation (loose guidelines)
- Governance paradigm: oldfashioned rehousing program (raze here, build there); quantity quality, output > process
- Results: mixed results but change in scale of housing crisis; asymmetries between municipalities.

exPERts (2016-2019)

- Goal: mapping the rehousing fluxes + case studies on local governance
- Partners: ICS-Ulisboa, CIES-IUL, IGOT-Ulisboa + IHRU
- Main output: the PER ATLAS: https://expertsproject.ics.ulisboa.

The New Generation of Housing Policies (NGPH, launched 2018)

- Context: a new housing crisis from tourism-driven recovery; resurgence of housing politics; later on: the pandemic years and the Next Generation EU.
- Key traits: a package of different programs; ambitious targets (quantitative and qualitative) by 2026; emphasis on rehabilitation and renting.
- Governance paradigm: "new governance": integrated, participatory, information-based; key: local housing strategies.
- Current issues: is the timeline realistic? Is the "new governance" really new?

LOGO (2023-2026)

- Goal: mapping the diffusion of local housing strategies (N=308) + case studies on local governance
- Partners: ICS-Ulisboa, CEAU-Uporto + National Association of Municipal Assemblies
- Main question: are local housing strategies a game changer in housing governance? Or is it just a show and/or a bureaucratic token?
